

True Essay Writing Service

True, they will have to not only learn how to create sites taking into account the realities there (Seo in the bourget is different from what we have in Runet), but also to deal with the methods of earning there, which can cause even greater difficulties. Therefore, today I want to offer you a kind of transitional option. In this case, the traffic will need to be mined in the bourgeois (to attract English-speaking users), but monetization of it will be possible in the affiliate program created by Runet representatives, where you can be consulted in Russian and help to successfully start in a new field.

I'm talking about an affiliate program that offers you to earn money on the search for clients who need to write an essay, essay (what is this?), Diploma (term, doctoral) work and much more from the field of academic work, which may be of interest to English-speaking students who there is money to pay for these services. Especially a lot of suitable solvent audience in the educational niche can be found in the States and Britain.

The affiliate program offers you from half to 70% of the value of a perfect order and up to thirty percent of all subsequent orders received from this "lazy student" whom you picked up on your affiliate link. The cost of an order can range from tens to thousands of dollars, but on average one order pulls between 100 150 dollars. In my opinion, a very interesting topic, which is worth exploring in more detail. What are they paying for, who should be attracted and what are we selling? In fact, the affiliate is engaged in the search for customers for large services involved in the implementation of students or someone else's intellectual work (in writing) of varying degrees of difficulty. This niche in the bourgeois is called Custom Writing, or if in Russian, then Custom Reiting (in other words, the essay niche), and the services are called "payers," and several of them are accumulated in this affiliate program

Who is the target audience for this affiliate program?

These are mainly students from English-speaking countries (as a rule, they are much more solvent than students in RuNet, so you can get much more profit from them). Bourgeois students will never regret money for a good job, unlike ours, who will resist and do everything themselves, but for free.

If you consider traffic from different countries, then you can build them in this order according to the degree of best conversion (demand for the services you write writing academic work):

- US States
- Britannia
- Canada
- Australia
- New Zealand
- Germany

It can also be noted that there are a significant number of clients from some Arab countries (wealthy Arabs from the Emirates or Kuwait) who order expensive work. It should also be noted that the US and UK are the most difficult countries to work. And, most likely, with arbitration there nothing shines for you in terms of payback and complexity. But nothing prevents you from creating high-quality niche platforms (separately for essays, essays, diplomas, etc.).
